

CT Scanning Closer to Home

Years of advocacy helped bring an essential diagnostic service to Taupō Hospital

For many years, people from Taupō who needed a CT scan had to travel to Rotorua. The journey added time, cost and stress for local patients and their whānau at an already difficult time.

Securing a scanner for Taupō Hospital took years of discussion and advocacy. The Taupō Hospital & Health Society held many conversations with Lakes Health and with our community, exploring how funds could be raised to purchase this important equipment for local people. The Society remained ready to support a community fundraising campaign if that was what was needed.

“To the Society’s great delight, approval was ultimately given for a CT scanner to be installed at Taupō Hospital.”

When the service opened in June, 80 bookings had already been made—clear evidence of the need for local access. The scanner means fewer people need to travel to Rotorua for essential diagnostic imaging and more patients can receive care closer to home, their whānau and support networks.

The CT scanner is an important investment in local health care and a proud example of sustained advocacy helping to create a lasting benefit for the Taupō community.
