

Paediatric Room Murals

Creating welcoming spaces for children receiving care at Taupō Hospital

The Taupō Hospital & Health Society is funding the printing of colourful vinyl murals for the paediatric assessment and treatment rooms at Taupō Hospital.

Created by renowned Taupō artist and author Donovan Bixley, the detailed scenes bring imagination, colour and a sense of discovery into the hospital environment.

“These murals will help create a calmer, friendlier and more engaging space for children and their whānau during assessment and treatment.”

A brighter experience for children and whānau

Hospital visits can feel unfamiliar and overwhelming for young patients. The vibrant murals provide positive visual distractions, encourage conversation and help the rooms feel less clinical and more welcoming.

Through this contribution, the Society continues to work alongside Taupō Hospital to improve the care experience for children, families and the wider community.
